AC Technician Career Jobs in Dubai

Air Conditioning Technician Job Description:

Air conditioning technicians perform various functions to see to it that air conditioning systems and related equipment and facilities work effectively and efficiently. The tasks, duties, and responsibilities that they carry out working for various organizations may differ because of the peculiar nature of operation in different companies.

However, their job descriptions commonly consist of the following duties and responsibilities:

- Carry out repair and routine maintenance duties on equipment, building facilities and offices, building systems, grounds, and structures
- Coordinate efforts with the company's contracted HVAC vendors to ensure company HVAC systems are functioning perfectly
- Perform inspection, maintenance, repairs, and installation of air conditioning systems, including D.D.C. building control and pneumatic systems, cooling systems, refrigerators, ice machines, refrigerated water coolers, and similar equipment
- Carry out maintenance checks on heating, ventilation, and air conditioning systems; clean evaporator drain pans, coils, and filters; lubricate fan and motor bearings; repair and change motors, electrical wiring, belts, compressors, thermostats, fans, floating elements, and defrost timers

AC Technician Skills:

- The air conditioning technicians should be able to work in places where they are exposed to dust, fumes, noise, toxic materials and high voltage equipment.
- They should also be capable of working in confined and hot spaces like roofs, crawlways, and attics.
- They may also have to work in adverse weather and may be required to lift heavy objects, bend, stoop, kneel or stand for long stretches of time.

AC Technician Salaries in UAE:

The average salary for an Air Conditioning (AC) Technician is 2,000 AED to 3,000 AED per month. Most people move on to other jobs if they have more than 10 years of experience in this field.
